About Patricia Hartley

Pat began working for the Ontario Minor Hockey Association in 1974 as the office secretary. The office at that time was situated in the basement of the then Secretary-Manager, Vern McCallum's home. Pat saw the OMHA through many changes: three office moves, three Secretary-Managers and the computer age!

After twenty years, Pat finally retired, only to be lured back for a final five years as a registration administrator. Pat didn't care what role she played with the OMHA, as long as she could help out. To her, it was all about the kids. Whenever Pat heard of a child who was interested in hockey, she would make sure to get that child a pin or some sort of hockey paraphernalia.

She vowed that she was only coming back to work for one year as she wanted to earn extra money for Christmas. However, Pat loved working at the OMHA and had made many friends and acquaintances over the years. She was also very thoughtful of her co-workers. If she heard someone mention a favourite delicacy, she would do her best to bring that food in the next day for the co-worker.

Pat retired two more times, each time coming back to work as a registration administrator. Pat became a grandmother in 1993 and again in 1996. Her granddaughters Alexandra and Olivia were the apples of her eye. She retired for good in 1999 and was to have looked after the girls two days a week, unfortunately, someone had other plans for her.

Pat would be very humbled and honoured by this award in her name and would have thought someone else was more deserving than she.
